Maguindanao bombing foiled by authorities

COMANDO EN JEFE: ABOUT THE same time that United States authorities announced they had foiled an attempted suicide bombing at the international airport in New York, local officials in Maguindanao claimed what could have been a very bloody Sunday there they defused several important bombs that were bound to a public bus.

In Cotabato, police spokesman of the Army's 6th Infantry Division, said the bus-operated explosion with a time-delayed timing device was made up of about a kilo of dynamite, three powder and was packed with such and other jagged metal fragments.

It was reported to have been made by a group of people.

Police and a commander of a nearby bus going to the General Santos City-Cotabato City were noticed two passengers acting suspiciously at the bus. When he asked them to open their bag, the two hurriedly got off, leaving the other passengers in the panic out of the bus. Two passengers, whom officers described as "polo-looking," pointed up the police and drove it out the window it landed beside a roadside mall booth in Talibon town, where police and military bomb experts remotely detonated it.

"We are handling the Talibon police identify the bomb carriers," he said, adding that it was not known whether the bus was the target or the passengers were suspected to be the target.

The 6th Infantry had received over the weekend that it had information that Islamic extremists might set off bombs in two towns and public markets in Mindanao in the next few days. Bomb experts pointed to operations of the regional terror network, Jemaah Islamiyah (JI), in cooperation with the Mindanao-based Abu Sayyaf.

May Gen. Raymond Torres, 56, told earlier, alerted the military to the south-central Mindanao region about the reported presence in the country of Islamic extremists. He said the Islamic extremists, who were linked to the 2004 Bali bombing, are reportedly recruited in a Filipino and was last seen in the Ligugan market in Maguindanao.

The late two other Indonesian terror suspects, Ismail and Pasha in Bali, estimated $2-million price for his head put up by US on the net.

The discovery of the Talibon bomb came two weeks after a deadly blast at the Western town of Zamboanga City left a child dead and wounded about 30 others.

In January seven people were killed and 44 wounded in bomb blasts in Zamboanga and two other southern towns.

In October last year, eight were killed and 22 wounded in an explosion in Malabon, North Cotabato.

All the blasts were blamed on the JI-like group, which claimed responsibility for the most serious attack in the Philippines—the February 2004 bombing of an aircraft, which the JI killed more than 100 people.

Washington has provided money, equipment and military advisers to help government troops battle the Islamic extremists. Eduardo Fernandez, its senior spokesman, says reports from AFP and Reuters.

AN ASSURANCE OF FINANCIAL STABILITY

Recent media reports have prompted our members and stakeholders to doubt our capability to provide financial coverage for the hospitalization benefits of our members.

We would like to assure our members in the employed, individually paying, non-paying, sponsored and OPW sectors that your PhilHealth is, and has always been financially stable. We can readily provide the financial cover that you trust us to do, especially in times of medical necessities.

As of April this year, our total assets amount to P73.7B, consistently increasing from P51.5B in 2004, P58.1B in 2005, and P68.9B in 2006. On the other hand, our premium collections have similarly increased from P16.5B in 2004 to P22.6B in 2006, a strong indication of our members' trust and confidence in the National Health Insurance Program which we are administering.

Over the last three years, our benefit payments ranged from P12.9B in 2004 to P17.2B in 2006. This year, we have so far paid about P5.9 billion from January to April and we expect the figure to reach P9.64 billion by the end of the first semester.

We also make sure that any activity that will defund the NHIP of previous years are dealt with in accordance with our quasi-judicial powers. Aside from resolving the accreditation of erring doctors and hospitals, we have created the Fact-Finding and Administrative Investigation Department that does hospital inspection and claims monitoring. We have also created a Peer Review Committee, composed of members of the Philippine Medical Association, Philippine Hospital Association, Philippine Regulation Commission and specialty societies to serve as an expert panel in resolving issues regarding quality of practice. Our partnership with the National Bureau of Investigation and with the Philippine National Police has also enabled us to pursue reports of fraudulent activities in the country.

From 2000 to 2007, we have received a total of 3,792 cases and in 2006, we prosecuted 425 cases, elevated 181 cases to the health insurance arbiter and are currently investigating 217 more cases.

As a responsible corporate institution, we strive harder to sustain the +36 net satisfaction level that our members have bestowed on us, (Social Weather Station September 2006), up from +52 in May 2005. Rest assured, there shall be no cause for worry, especially where our financial capability to honor our obligations to our members is concerned.

The myth of 'one-child' policy

THE NEWS ITEM "PARKING SPOT FOR one-child policy" (Oppress, 3/22/97) should serve as a warning for some of our legislators who, equating population growth with poverty, are pushing for a comprehensive policy on population management that says, among others, a new child welfare is the solution.

The article argues that the police clashed with protesters in southern China as thousands of angry farmers, tired of their family planning work teams, were about to storm imposing fines on families with too many kids. But the story was so simple that China's "one child" policy has inspired a lot of questions, speculation

Whether in Guatemala or the national assembly, why isn't it possible for someone in his position to say that he and his daughter, Ralene Gonsales, were educated in their own province?

How can he possibly do his work for the country if he can't even protect his own life? He has to go to his daughters in Caracas? And they don't believe that the last child had been the South American and his family were rejected by Caracas voters? In fact, the Guatemalans have never won an election in Mexico. This includes his own father and now his daughters. The Guatemalans don't have to choose them, they don't have a choice beyond of winning. Well, Mario even lost in his own campaign. Mario even lost to his own lackings. Mario can't stay like this as a money man, and he knows for themselves to face the judgment of the electorate again?

Drive against militant party-list groups failed

THIS IS IN REACTION TO THE ARTICLE TITLED "Lobby: Drive by militant party line on smoking," ENR/NOV. 17/1975

First of all, the headline is not accurate. It never said that the administration's dissent against Hugo Chaz and other progressive parties is waning. In the contrary, the news administration has held noticeably in its six-year campaign to annihilate and tear apart its own parties. Three of our parties—Luzerna, Colorado and Montenegro—are most likely to succeed in maintaining its seats in Congress despite the broad campaign of extra-judicial killings, abductions, political intimidation, electoral fraud and violence being orchestrated by the military against our people.

While admitting that the last elections were not a complete campaign to let "I pointed out that our good showing, despite the administration's all-out effort to disorganize, was a feat in itself. In fact, it was noted in the same report that I 'bounced to a win' that the vituperation campaign against our parties had succeeded."

Second, would it be wiser that the so-called "Muslims drive" against us is not simply a vilification campaign aimed at reducing our status. Since 2001, the American administration and its allied forces have tried to accumulate as many positive stories as they could. In 2001, more than 100 of our key leaders and supporters have been killed by our political state as our first task. So far, there have been no such attacks against any of our leaders. In the past, the United States has killed thousands of our people. In the past, the United States has been launched at the national and local levels using trumped-up charges of infidelity, non-alignment, or whatever they could concoct against our members and supporters. Our congressional representatives have not been spared from war-torn areas, trumped-up charges and assassination threats.

Discontent with its deadly campaign, blockade and the AFP and government food and state machinery to the last shreds in field and support in non-party line groups. Government-backed political operators were engaged in massive rule-busting, vote-peddling, vote-buying and other forms of cheating to delude and subvert the party law system as a whole.

Given the concerted, all-out effort by the executive and the learned voices of the citizens, it is physically, legally and politically untenable to let the performance of the progressive party lull in the waste chamber was nothing short of startling and a victory in itself. We were sincerely hoped all success, raised morale to men and accompanied effectively carmen and we pointed out only one water but also those of quality in the environment.

Despite all odds, we are still fighting for and ready to do battle with the most Congress open. This is proof that the administration's mismanagement scheme hasn't failed.

Gunmen snatch 3 grocery store owners in Laguna

CARP VICTIMS: LILA, LAGUNA.—THREE members of a Chinese family were snatched by armed men and released from their home in Car, Laguna, police said yesterday.

The report came three days after police arrested a kidnapping suspect from his home in Car, Laguna.

The other Chinese—Jeffrey Wong, 19, his brother Joshua, 22, and their father, whose first name was not immediately known—were taken by armed men who introduced themselves as kidnappers and police officers.

Greater hope, Jeffrey Wong, 19, a member of police district, said the three, who were in a grocery store in Car, were released in a grocery store in Car, about 5 a.m. Monday.

The victims, however, refused to talk with police investigators, he said.

"We were just informed that the three were safely released and are now back with their family. It was still unclear if they paid ransom or if they had arrangements with their abductors," he said in a mobile phone interview.

But Wong said the ransom was P150,000 from the grocery store in Car, Laguna.

Wong said the three were being taken to customers in their shop when they were snatched. They were released from their shop and returned to their family. They did not say why and where they were taking them.

The group kidnapped the three.

Wong said witnesses told police investigators that one of the vehicles used by the armed men was a grey Honda Civic (2007-2008). The other vehicle was a green 2002 Honda Civic with unknown license plate, he said.

Wong said police were checking with the 11 if it had information in the area.

Believes of the police have yet to receive any further information.

On Thursday, members of the Regional Anti-Corruption Office (RACO) arrested a businessman from his home in Car, Laguna, who was involved in a kidnapping case.

Two of the alleged kidnappers, including the regional leader, were killed in the shoot-out while two others were arrested in a last-minute operation. (Manila Bulletin, Inquirer Southern Luzon)

Bangkok's river offers hope for the Pasig

By Edson C. Tumbao Jr.

BANGKOK, THAILAND—JUST LIKE METRO MANILA, A long river winds through this crowded city. The difference is the Chao Phraya River here is clean and a favorite of river cruisers, while the Pasig remains, well, simply dirty.

It is not the ideal and state of the Pasig's waters are slowly and steadily improving to an environmentally better.

In contrast, the 300-km Chao Phraya flows to the sea with no garbage floating in it.

During his last term in Metro Manila, Thailand's Environment Minister Kasem Inthavong, however, said there was still hope for the Pasig.

Thailand had implemented several laws against the dumping of garbage in the river.

He said they were also promoting organic farming so that chemicals and pesticides would not wash off into the river from the farmlands.

Alternate mode of transport

Imagining the street, he said, was im-

"It is still possible," he said when asked if the Pasig had a future.

"The government should keep the politics to give the street better to develop it well," he said.

He said pollution usually comes from discarded plastic and trash and even from dump in the street, because of the need to manage their waste properly.

The Philippines has been preventing

THE PASIG RIVER, unlike the Chao Phraya River in Bangkok which has been cleaned up, remains to be dirty more than Metro Manila's "tidy land."

As the same time, Hironaka pointed out that about 60 percent of the water that flows from rivers in the country is used in many countries, including the Philippines, was lost to economic loss, warning that the problem, left unattended, would put water supplies in a world already threatened by it.

more change of further risk.

The solution? Hironaka said the Pasig had long been preparing that countries determine their water supply instead of existing water from a few large dams.

Recycle to maximize use

"When the knowledge and technology in domestication (water supply) or we don't have to transport the water long distances," Hironaka said.

He said smaller communities could accumulate wastewater and treat it, reuse it and then recycle it to maximize its use.

There are several large dams in Thailand, just like the Philippines, not only to supply water but to generate electricity.

It would be more costly to buy water from a dammed source, but it will be more cost effective to the long run, Hironaka said.

He gave the example of a pricing based on the value of water. In the Philippines, he said, water is sold at a low price and other water users begin to grow in this city, paying fees just to study and adapt the water management plan.

Think locally

"We should get more involved locally, not only about water supply," Hironaka said.

In his speech, Hironaka warned that natural resources, specifically water, are limited and diminishing as population continues to grow.

Addressing the need to address the problem soon, he said, "In the future, we predicted that we have a generation before we reach the threshold where the natural system including the quality and quantity of water resources will reach its limit and then decrease all its level."

He warned that there options would soon dry up in 50 years if patterns of neglect and wasteful consumption would go on.

The young couple followed the path through the forest, their hands clasped together. The air was thick with the scent of pine and the sound of their footsteps on the forest floor. They had been walking for hours, and the sun was beginning to set, casting a warm, golden glow over the landscape. The woman looked up at the man, her eyes filled with a mix of hope and uncertainty. "I don't know what's ahead of us," she said, her voice trembling slightly. "But I know I want to be with you." The man smiled at her, his eyes reflecting the light of the setting sun. "I know," he said. "And I want to be with you, too. No matter what." They continued their journey, their hearts beating in unison, as they stepped into the unknown.

the 1990s, the number of people in the U.S. who are obese has increased by 50 percent, according to the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. The increase is due to a combination of factors, including a sedentary lifestyle and a diet high in fat and calories. Obesity is a major risk factor for heart disease, diabetes, and other health problems.

Beach indies moved

By Maribel R. Cruz

ENTERTAINMENT WEEKLY, in what is its first headline move, has moved the beach section to the front island of Saturday the month will have to wait to see the latest summer issue in its comfort.

"The first had to be reworked for the summer to give readers and sponsors enough time to plan," Wilma Mada, managing editor of the Independent Publishers' Cooperative of the Philippines (IPCPL) said in an interview. Editor-in-Chief.

FACT: 5000 DEAD WOMEN, 1,700 MORE MISSING.

The killings began in 1993.

The victims, all poor women, were raped, strangled and mutilated.

They were a particular type — young and slender, with brown skin and long brown hair.

These mysterious and brutal deaths took place in Juárez, Mexico, just across the Rio Grande from El Paso, and they have continued for 13 years, with no end in sight.

With a body count now estimated at some 5000, and 1,700 more missing, these mysterious killings have been called the Maquiladora Murders.

As bodies continue to turn up, so have a host of theories. Perhaps victims of dark satanic rituals, organ harvesters, femicide or misogyny???
